

Recommendation Reception Conditions

There are several ways to receive a recommendation letter based on which the maximum number of requests differs.

1. Taken Courses:

- If you have passed at least two courses with excellent final grades, you will receive up to two recommendations.

2. Teaching Assistant

- For each TA, you will receive up to two recommendations based on your efforts.
  - If you perform well, you will receive up to three recommendations.

3. Bachelor's Thesis

- The project status affects the maximum number of receiving recommendations:
  - If you have not finished the project yet:
    - Three recommendations.
  - If you have finished the project and the overall quality is good, but you have not submitted any paper:
    - Four recommendations.
  - If you have finished the project with high-quality results and have submitted a paper:
    - Six recommendations.

If you are assigned to a PhD/master student's thesis, your performance satisfaction depends on their evaluation, which affects the maximum number of receiving recommendations.

4. Lab Project

- If you join an internal project apart from the thesis, based on your performance you will receive up to three recommendations based on your performance.

5. Master's Thesis

- The project status affects the maximum number of receiving recommendations:
  - If you have not finished the project yet:
    - Five recommendations.
  - If you have finished the project and the overall quality is good but you have not submitted any paper:
    - Seven recommendations.
  - If you have finished the project with high-quality results and have submitted a paper:
    - Ten recommendations.

6. PhD's Thesis

- Based on the case.
